George P. Flannery Declares
on Stand His Residence
Was in St. Paul

HAD MANY INTERESTS

Mr. McKenzie Had Virtually
Retired from Local Water
Company, Is Statement

George P. Flannery of St. Paul, administrator of the estate of Alexander McKenzie, former North Dakota political leader, took the witness stand before Judge I. C. Davies in county court here today to testify as to the residence of Mr. McKenzie before his death. Mr. Flannery, as administrator, contends that Mr. McKenzie was a resident of St. Paul while Burleigh county and the state of North Dakota contends his legal residence was Bismarck and that, therefore, the estate should pay an inheritance tax.

Mr. Flannery detailed the business operations of Mr. McKenzie, whom he said he had known since 1874. They included mining interests in British Columbia, the Cook Construction Company of St. Paul and the Cook Construction Company Limited of Canada, the Stiles Cattle Company, operating in North Dakota; Bismarck Water Supply Company.

Flannery declared that Mr. McKenzie on October 6, 1921, transferred all of his stock in the Bismarck Water Supply Company, except one share, to him and that McKenzie said he was not being fairly treated in Bismarck and hoped he would never have to come to North Dakota again.

Mr. Flannery said that Mr. McKenzie moved to St. Paul in 1875, still retaining much property in Bismarck. His mining interests in British Columbia were with the general counsel of the Northern Pacific. Later he was in the bond brokerage business in New York for about three years with Elijah Hoffman, an early day partner in Bismarck. McKenzie spent considerable time in Canada looking after work of the Cook Construction Company later, the witness said. He and associates had an option on some iron mining property in northern Minnesota, but never acquired title, he said.

Mr. Flannery mentioned the Stiles Cattle Company, owned by A. B. Cook, Jack Stiles and McKenzie. The company, he said, increased its cattle holdings during the war when the government encouraged increased farming operations, and when the market dropped after the war the company got into financial difficulties. Stockholders put up $45,000 to take up shrinkage, he said.

Mr. Flannery said the Bismarck Water Supply Company caused Mr. McKenzie much trouble, smiling as he mentioned this company, the subject of much bitter discussion. McKenzie, he said, was here for a time in 1920 at a rate hearing, and then spent one winter in California, one in Arizona and one in Canada.

"On October 6, 1921, McKenzie transferred to me all stock in the Bismarck Water Supply Company, except one share which I insisted he keep, and said they were not treating him fairly in Bismarck and he hoped he would never have to come back to North Dakota," said Mr. Flannery. "He also transferred to me his stock in the Stiles Cattle Company."

Mr. Flannery said McKenzie never had anything to do with the Toad Land company, he managing that.

Mrs. Foster on Stand
Mrs. Mary B. Foster, eldest daughter of the late Alexander McKenzie, North Dakota political leader for many years, took the witness stand yesterday afternoon in support of the contention that McKenzie was a resident of Minnesota and that North Dakota is not entitled to collect an inheritance tax from the estate.

Mrs. Foster, who was born in Bismarck, said that her father moved his family to St. Paul in 1887 and maintained a house there for his family and himself, although he was absent much of the time on business, until 1897, when his first wife died. The house was maintained at intervals thereafter, she said. For a time Mr. McKenzie lived in New York, being engaged in the brokerage business, she said.

Asserting that she and her sister wished to live in Bismarck after their father's death, she said, "my father told me he would never make another home in Bismarck. There was something about it—my mother's death had broken up our home."

She and her sister were lavishly provided for by their father, being sent at various times to school, to the Adirondacks, to Europe and to other places.

Answering the question as to how it happened Mr. McKenzie was buried in Bismarck after his death in St. Paul about two years ago, Mrs. Foster said that she decreed the burial here because Mr. McKenzie's son, John, was buried here and the son's death was one of the great griefs of his life, and also in response to numerous petitions from Bismarck citizens that his last resting place be in this city.

NOMINATION OF YOUNG IS SENT SENATE

President Would Appoint Congressman to Choice Judgeship Post

Washington, May 20.—The nomination of Congressman George M. Young, North Dakota, to the court of customs appraisers went to the senate late yesterday. This is looked upon as the best appointment outside diplomatic service.

Thirty years ago it was simply a board of appraisement appeals but congress has gradually added to its power until its judges now have all the power of the United States district judges, covering all litigation arising out of customs laws and administration. Special training is required for this position which Young has had in his six years service on the ways and means committee.

Congressman Young is serving his 12th year in congress. He was the author of the emergency tariff law, the anti-dumping law and a number of other important laws. He is 50 years old and a graduate of the University of Minnesota. He settled at Casselton, N. D., in 1890, where he was employed by Pollock and Young, attorneys.

In 1894 he opened a law office in Valley City and later served eight years in the state legislature, where he held positions as chairman of the house judiciary committee, chairman of the house standing committee, and president pro tem in the senate.

Mr. Young passed through stormy campaigns but always had a good margin.

FARM HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Owner Is Burned About the Hands and Face

Fire destroyed the farm house of Walter E. Pesonen, near Wing, early last evening and Mr. Pesonen was painfully burned about the hands and face.

The fire is believed to have been caused by an incubator. The entire house and contents were destroyed, there being no insurance. Some cash which Mr. Pesonen had in the house he dug out of the ruins later.

Turkey eggs were being hatched in the incubator. About 20 had hatched. Mrs. Pesonen and children went to the field, and Mr. Pesonen also was working in a field at the time. He happened to look around the house and saw smoke issuing from the house. He rushed to the house, opened the door, and a burst of flames burned his face and hands.

Vice-President of Credit Corporation Says 150 Banks Have Been Aided

SEES GOOD RESULTS

Great Impetus Given to Diversified Farming Movement Through Project

Chicago, May 20 (By the A. P.)—The $10,000,000 Agricultural Credit Corporation, originally tentatively formed in Chicago at the suggestion of President Coolidge for the relief of the agricultural Northwest, has already come to the relief of more than 150 banks in North and South Dakota, Montana, Iowa and Minnesota. It was disclosed today by James R. Howard, a vice-president of the organization and president of the National Transportation Institute. The corporation has been in actual operation scarcely more than a month.

In addition to relief of banks the credit corporation has established a $1,000,000 fund for direct aid to farmers to purchase dairy cows, sheep or brood sows, in order to promote diversified farming.

The nuclei of a diversified farming industry has been established and it is expected to expand this mixed farming movement as rapidly as experience justifies, to cover the whole Northwest. The relief extended to banks to date approximates $2,000,000, according to the statement. Additional commitments for bank loans which will be turned over as soon as a few details are attended to, amounts to nearly $1,000,000 more. These sums do not include delinquent tax or interest relief, seed purchases or other direct agricultural appropriation granted or under way, Mr. Howard said.

Is Coming Back
"This great Northwest country is coming back, make no mistake about that," said Mr. Howard. "Its welfare is essential to the United States. It is a wonderful country, an agricultural empire. It cannot help returning to prosperity."

One of the most important things the credit corporation is doing is building up diversified farming. The million dollar fund for the establishment of dairy herds and general stock farming ought to introduce a new element of prosperity into the agriculture of these states. The problem of the agricultural Credit Corporation has been to select the general line of work and the locality where an organized effort could be most speedily made and the greatest good accomplished in the shortest time. The purpose of the corporation was to afford as much relief to the Northwestern states as was possible within the limited resources of the corporation.

APPREHENDED

Los Angeles, May 20.—Timothy O'Brien is in the city jail here today, charged with stealing human heads.

Police admitted they were puzzled when George Sullivan reported last March that someone had stolen his $25,000 collection of preserved human heads and other curios gathered during a journey to the headwaters of the Amazon. Where to look for a human head burglar kept him guessing, but the curio came to light in a sideshow at Long Beach, and O'Brien, proprietor of the show, was arrested.

TAX BILL MAY BE CHANGED TO WIN APPROVAL

Veto of Measure Now in Congress Is Threatened in Present Situation

COOLIDGE'S ATTITUDE

Indicated He Feels That Bonus Passage Makes Disapproval a Necessity

Washington, May 20.—Veto of the revenue bill, now pending in conference, was forecast at the capitol today, in view of previous indications by the administration spokesmen that enactment of the bonus bill passed yesterday would necessitate disapproval of the tax reduction measure by President Coolidge.

It was recalled that Secretary Mellon, in announcing his reduction plan impossible if the bonus was allowed. President Coolidge in his veto message on the bonus stressed particularly the effect of the bill on government economy and although he made no direct statement that the bonus would prevent tax reduction such an inference was drawn by many from his message.

Repassage of the bonus bill by congress over his veto also may have some effect on the action of the conferees. They complete today the first week's work on the bill and agreement has been reached on the first week's work on the bill.

President Coolidge has declared his opposition to the tax for a flat corporation tax and the Senate amendment providing full publicity of returns.

READY FOR BONUS

Washington, May 20.—Government machinery was in motion to administer the soldier bonus law, finally enacted yesterday when the Senate followed the House and repassed the bill over President Coolidge's veto.

While the fight for the bonus has been increasing in intensity during the past two years, considerable preliminary preparation had been made by the departments affected to carry out the provisions of such a bill.

Director of the Veterans Bureau which will have direct control over the administration of the law, declared today the bureau was ready to handle its share of the work.

The law, which applies to more than 4,000,000 World War veterans and their dependents, provides for cash payments to veterans and entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service credits and paid-up 20-year endowment insurance policies to others. The insurance policies will not be issued before next January 1 while the cash payments fall due after next March 1.

Both the Navy and Army departments will be required to pass on the application of veterans for the bonus, which must be filed before January 1, 1928.

The Veterans Bureau is estimated between 400 and 500 additional personnel will be required to administer the law during the first year with an expense of at least $1,000,000.

BOBBED HAIR RELIGIOUS ACT ON PART OF BLACKFEET INDIANS

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Sometimes there is conflict in customs. What is religious to one mind, may be ridiculous to another, and vice versa. This was amusingly demonstrated, according to the Department of Indian Affairs, by an incident on the Glacier National Park reservation, where a crowd of tourists had gathered to watch the last Independence Day tribal dance of the Blackfeet.

Tomahawking the hair by Indian maidens was done many moons before the rouge-tinted pale face girl ever thought of bobbing hers to be fashionable. But, the Indian maidens chopped off their locks in grief when their lovers were killed in battle. Having this imprinted on their minds as an act of mourning, it naturally caused a feeling of sympathy among a bevy of squaws gathered for the tribal celebration when they noticed so many white girls with short hair among the tourist spectators assembled.

IS ARRESTED

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—M. T. Weum, former president of the closed First State Bank of Moorhead, was arrested Saturday at San Diego, Cal., on three grand jury indictments, charging first degree grand larceny in connection with the operation on the closed bank.

Sheriff Peter Malvey of Clay county has left for San Diego to bring Mr. Weum back to Moorhead to face the charges in Clay county district court. Following his arrest on warrants sent from Clay county, Mr. Weum wired that he would waive extradition.

Embezzlement of a total of $11,400 is charged, the first indictment involving $8,000, the second $2,400 and the third $1,000. The maximum penalty for first degree grand larceny in Minnesota is 10 years in prison, according to W. George Hammett, Clay county attorney. Mr. Hammett stated that he had not determined whether he would move for trial of the charges at this time of court or not. The indictments were returned by the grand jury sitting at the present term of court.

The foreign minister said there had been no formal interchanges between the foreign office and the ambassador dealing with the matter although Tokio officials have known that Mr. Hanihara was determined not to resign in the United States after the Japanese exclusion clause in the recently enacted immigration bill becomes effective.

Fire in Montana
Wipes Out Relics

Great Falls, Mont., May 20.—Half a dozen mansions of 40 years ago, paneled still with the chipped and marred remnants of expensive woods, with bits of stained glass adhering to the windows and the lines of old landscape gardening merging into the surrounding prairie two miles from this city, are to be burned by order of the state fire marshal.

These decaying relics of finance and romance of the early days in Montana will be destroyed at the same time that the stack of the old silver smelter which was the excuse for their existence is dynamited. Since 1893, when silver ore from Canada, northern Idaho and the long worked-out silver mines of Montana ceased to flow to the prairie smelter, the mansions have been deserted. The old three-story brick buildings, in exterior and interior the equal of the most elegant clubs of the Atlantic seaboard in those days, were erected by the promoters of Montana's first smelter. In them were entertained capitalists of New York and Boston, brought to the west over the newly built railroads. On the polished floors of their ball rooms danced officers from Fort Assiniboine and other frontier army posts which now are nothing but names.

Vote Will Be Permitted on Measure Even by Its Opponents, Indicated

WHAT BILL PROVIDES

Would Set Up Government Corporation To Market Surplus Products Abroad

Washington, May 20.—(By the A. P.)—The plight of the American farmer today was before the House, which probably will decide by the end of the week whether the McNary-Haugen bill should be passed as a relief measure.

The bill, which would set up a government corporation to market surplus farm products abroad, will under a plan advanced by Chairman Snell of the rules committee reach a final vote by Saturday, with at least two night sessions to speed up consideration.

Reported by a majority of the agricultural committee the measure faced a fight on the part of many Republicans and Democrats who considered it unworkable. Several committee members had announced their opposition, although being willing to allow a vote.

In arranging to give the bill right of way, Rep. Longworth, the Republican leader, and members of the Republican steering committee made it clear that none of them was committing himself to its support or uncertainty as to the outcome was increased by the inability of House leaders to obtain an expression from President Coolidge as to his views on the proposal.

To Market Abroad
The corporation provided for in the bill would have a capital stock of $200,000,000 to be subscribed by the government as needed. Proponents of the measure contend that in the end, all money turned over to the corporation would be returned to the treasury.

Provision is made for the marketing abroad of wheat, flour, corn, rice, wool, sheep, cattle, swine or any good product of cattle, sheep or swine.

The bill was framed originally by Department of Agriculture experts. Introduced by Chairman Haugen of the agricultural committee it has been revised.

1,000 HEAD OF LIVESTOCK IN YARDS BURNED

Heavy Loss Is Caused by Fire in the Chicago Stock Yards

Chicago, May 20.—More than 1,000 head of cattle and sheep were burned and a number of pens destroyed in the heart of the stock yards district by a fire which threatened for a time the entire district.

Police and spectators worked with yards employees in driving more than 5,000 sheep and a number of cattle to safety outside the danger zone. A herd of cattle, frightened by the blaze, attempted to stampede but were corralled in another pen before they had done any damage.

A wooden viaduct was partially destroyed as were several thousand tons of hay in the barn where the fire started, six special calls brought in all available fire apparatus and within two hours after the flames had burst through the roof of the barn they were under control.

Losses in buildings and pens, owned by the Union Stock Yards and Transit Company and leased to packers, was estimated to be less than $100,000 but the loss in cattle, sheep and hay was not known.

Fire Chief Buckley who assumed control of the fight, stepped on a live wire from which the insulation had been stripped and was thrown nearly twenty feet. He was only slightly injured. A spectator suffered three broken ribs when he fell from the top of a pen where he was aiding in driving the sheep to safety.

Democratic Convention To Have Soothing Music; Jazz Will Be Barred

Joe Basile Will Keep Delegates in Good Humor With Brass Band and "Arcady"

New York City.—The Democratic National Chairman and his imposing colleagues may decide who our next President will be but Joe Basile, musical director of the convention, will have what he asserts is a still more difficult job—that of keeping the delegates in good humor, so that when Mr. Right is proposed his name will go through.

"One way he's not going to do it is with jazz."

"You can bet your life I am not going to give them jazz at that convention," Mr. Basile declared. "They will have the most soothing music that can be found, and it will all be played by a good old-fashioned brass band."

"No pulse raising saxophones or feet tickling banjos will be used. Tunes like 'Arcady,' a waltz written by Al Jolson, will put them in a thoughtful, judicial frame of mind."

"Those delegates will need their nerves slowed down, and the music will do that better than anything else."

Mr. Basile has played for circuses, races, round-ups and stampedes, but never before for a political national convention.

THE average individual, engrossed with his own affairs, may not appreciate that the number of automobiles increased 1200% between 1913 and 1923, while the average price of gasoline for the entire year 1923, increased but 12% over the year 1913.

While the production of crude oil during the period increased 300%, the output of gasoline increased 600%—a noteworthy achievement.

Without the processes originated and developed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), this increased yield of gasoline could not have been obtained. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has led in the adoption of improved methods in all departments of refining and marketing petroleum.

This Company has fostered the adoption of every new method which could influence lower production and distribution costs. The benefits resulting from these improvements have been reflected to the consumer in better service and better products.

The motorist driving through the Middle West is able to buy gasoline made by this Company at convenient intervals on city streets and country roads.

He may encounter all sorts of food and lodging—all kinds of roads—but he will find Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gasoline everywhere and everywhere the same, and the price will be low.

To maintain such a satisfactory condition of affairs, the Management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has dealt wisely with labor—employed capital sensibly—and used invention intelligently.

In this way it has been able to assume a generous share of the great burden of meeting a 1200% increased demand for gasoline while charging only 12% more for its products in 1923 than in 1913.

1,000 HEAD OF LIVESTOCK IN YARDS BURNED

Heavy Loss Is Caused by Fire in the Chicago Stock Yards

Chicago, May 20.—More than 1,000 head of cattle and sheep were burned and a number of pens destroyed in the heart of the stock yards district by a fire which threatened for a time the entire district.

Police and spectators worked with yards employees in driving more than 5,000 sheep and a number of cattle to safety outside the danger zone. A herd of cattle, frightened by the blaze, attempted to stampede but were corralled in another pen before they had done any damage.

A wooden viaduct was partially destroyed as were several thousand tons of hay in the barn where the fire started, six special calls brought in all available fire apparatus and within two hours after the flames had burst through the roof of the barn they were under control.

Loss in buildings and pens, owned by the Union Stock Yards and Transit Company and leased to packers, was estimated to be less than $100,000 but the loss in cattle, sheep and hay was not known.

Fire Chief Buckley who assumed control of the fight, stepped on a live wire from which the insulation had been stripped and was thrown nearly twenty feet. He was only slightly injured. A spectator suffered three broken ribs when he fell from the top of a pen where he was aiding in driving the sheep to safety.

'BETTER HOMES' WEEK PLEAS A. C. COMMITTEE

The Association of Commerce Committee in charge of the Better Homes in America Movement staged a Bismarck last week, in more than pleased with the response from the public to this first effort in this direction.

The Committee was composed of the following persons:

Mrs. G. F. Dullam—Chairman, General Arrangements.
Mrs. H. P. O'Hare—Chairman, Lecture Demonstration Building.
Mrs. F. A. Copelin—Chairman, Demonstrations.

Mrs. E. P. Quinn—Chairman, Yards and Schools.
Mrs. F. A. Lahr, Mrs. R. E. Bonham, R. K. Skyles, and Phil Webb.

The Committee is most appreciative of the co-operation received from the business men and their willingness to do everything asked of them.

The demonstrations in every place had many visitors. It will be possible to visit these rooms this week also. The lecture-demonstration in the Eltinge Building was well attended in spite of the rain and some misunderstanding as to the place, and nature of the whole movement.

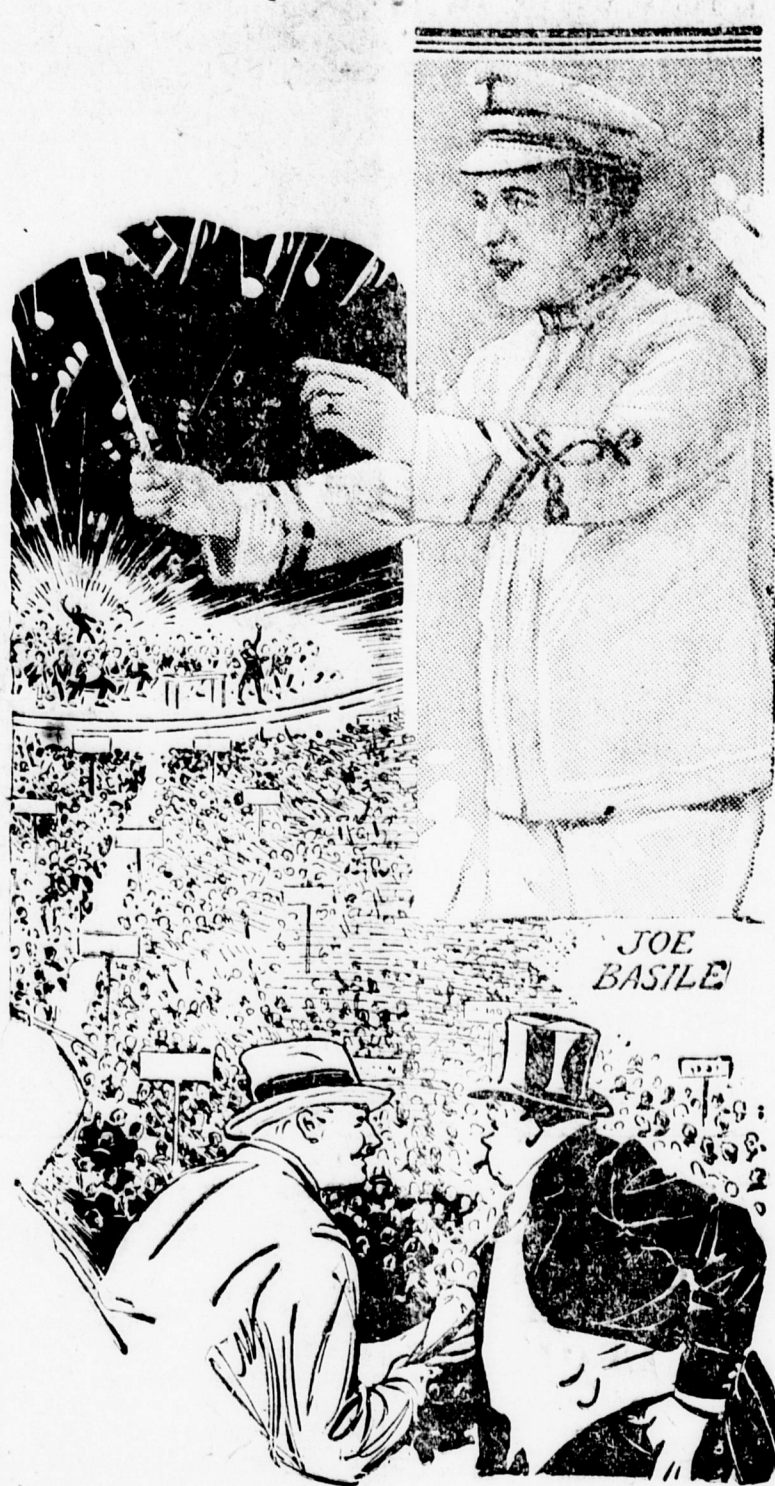

It is proposed now to have a demonstration home next year. But in any case the Better Homes in America Movement will be observed with renewed interest by members of the Association of Commerce Committee and the business men of the city.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

THE SITUATION CHANGED

Hopes of people of the nation who believed that a straightforward policy of curtailment of the public expense with a consequent lifting of fetters on business and a beneficial effect to every person in the country through assurance of continued industrial activity, a quickened readjustment to the phantom objective "normalcy" and perhaps a reduction in the cost of living, would be the great accomplishment of the present session of the national Congress are doomed to disappointment.

A scientific plan of tax reduction was presented, the object of which was to lift the weight on business, expand investments in productive concerns rather than in tax-free securities and make necessary a more level-headed plane of public expenditures. That plan has been ruthlessly shattered through partisan prejudice, narrow vision and utter selfishness in Congress. Instead there is now presented a hodge-podge tax revision measure which fails to provide revenue equal to the anticipated expenditures.

The passage of the soldier bonus bill makes necessary the raising of a huge sum of money annually. It is a reward to those who served in the World War which may prove relatively as costly as the peace of Versailles. For every big contributing factor to the restriction of business activity means lessened prosperity and postponed readjustment of after-the-war conditions.

The Bursum pension bill which President Coolidge vetoed was a measure which was put through by a narrow-visioned Congress, entirely unnecessary and saddling a huge burden on the public treasury.

The President's adamant attitude for the kind of legislation the people desired when the present session of Congress opened has thrown him into open conflict with Congress. The effect on the country at large is problematical. What his action may mean to his political future is uncertain as well. There is a considerable feeling among the people that Presidents have come to represent the people at large, while Congress with its myriads of local pork-barrel schemes and its fight for sectional or class gains has failed to think in terms of the entire nation. It is to be hoped that the people will not forget that President Coolidge is taking the more difficult course, that he is deliberately willing to place himself in opposition to local prejudice and vote-getting measures, and to rest his case with the country at large.

DODGING AGAIN

The Mandan Pioneer, taking up the defense of the "hide and seek" road policy designed to bring people into "Mandan's back door" and prevent them from enjoying equal advantages in the Mandan and Bismarck markets, continues to resort to ridicule and to represent falsely that the protests arising here are those of one citizen and a newspaper.

The Mandan Pioneer does not forget but it refuses to state that the Association of Commerce of Bismarck is back of the protests, that the most prominent business men and citizens of Bismarck declare our protest is just, and that a considerable number of Morton county people as well as Sioux county citizens, including the superintendent of the government Indian agency, all declare the so-called Mandan policy is one of utter selfishness and short-sightedness.

The kind of cooperation offered to Bismarck and to a considerable portion of residents of southern Morton and Sioux counties is a stab in the back. That is not the kind of cooperation they want from Mandan citizens or from any other source.

EXECUTIONER

Another public executioner commits suicide in Germany—his name Schweiss, age 74, retired on a small pension.

In his career he chopped off the heads of 123 criminals. Not an enviable record to carry into the Hereafter. He is on the other side now and knows how many (if any) of his victims were innocent, also whether capital punishment is classed as murder on the other side. The original version was "Thou shalt not kill"—without qualifications. Man has amended it for warfare and revenue against criminals.

HIGH

In France an aviator named Coupet breaks the world's record by flying to a height of over three and a half miles above the ground with 2200 pounds of cargo aboard.

This is a lot more important than smashing speed records. Flyers in general are obsessed with a craze for speed. What is needed most, to popularize flying, is SAFETY and CARRYING CAPACITY. Enormous express and passenger traffic will be handled by planes of the future. Flying still is more of a sport than a serious business.

LIQUOR

England and Scotland report that exports of liquor to islands near our Atlantic coast are only a third as much as a year ago. But this doesn't mean the rum-runners are less active. What is does mean, is a flood of counterfeit liquor, made from alcohol exported from this desert country of ours. The stuff is shipped out, doctored, colored, bottled and labeled, then brought back as the real thing.

ACTUALLY

Nothing is impossible in our day and age. The former crown prince of Germany has actually gone to work, unless the report from Prussia is a hoax. The ex-prince, according to the story, is selling agricultural machinery and working up a good business among the Germans.

Talk about beating swords into ploughshares!

Much coffee was injured in Detroit, when a bomb wrecked two coffee houses, the coffee probably being too weak to run.

A wise man never stands out in the rain or tries to open a milk bottle with his thumb.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

WHEELER CLEARED

The exoneration of Senator Wheeler by a special senatorial committee will be accepted by the country as an act of justice. Under the chairmanship of Senator Borah, the committee has acted fairly, hearing every witness whose testimony was relevant to the question of Senator Wheeler's guilt of innocence of the charge of having represented a client before a governmental department.

Other evidence, adverse to Senator Wheeler, may come to light; he should be tried on the indictment brought against him by a federal grand jury in Montana; but on the face of the evidence so far revealed, the indictment seems to have been the result of spittlework by some old-fashioned members of the Republican National Committee, in return for Senator Wheeler's vigorous attacks on Attorney General Daugherty.

Lovers of fair play will rejoice that the malicious efforts of the Daugherty client have been frustrated by the prompt and impartial investigation by the Borah committee; and at the same time it may be pointed out that the Daugherty investigation, largely conducted by Senator Wheeler, has not been prompt, but has been drawn-out, has not been impartial, but has been glaringly partisan and vindictive; has not excluded extraneous matters, as did Chairman Borah, but has encouraged irresponsible witnesses to spread slanders against personal enemies.

When Senator Wheeler was indicted, he received a dose of his own medicine—slander. Therefore the sympathy which he has received has sometimes contained a snicker. But the injustices which Senator Wheeler has committed in the Daugherty hearings are no justification for an unfounded indictment. —Chicago Journal of Commerce.

GOVERNMENT AND INDIVIDUALS

There is a note of sound philosophy and truth in what Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, said, while visiting St. Paul yesterday, in analyzing causes of discontent and unrest.

In Marshall's opinion, the trouble is with individuals themselves, rather than with the government and its laws. "I am a poor man today," said Mr. Marshall, "for the simple reason that I squandered my money and lacked thrift when a young man. If I had saved my money and invested it then, as I should have done, I would be on easy street today. I could spend my old age in any way I chose. But I haven't enough money to buy a home. I have to live in a rented house. I haven't enough to live on without working."

"Still I can't blame my government for the folly of my youth. Nor would it be right for me to ask that any special legislation be enacted to help me out. I am to blame myself. The government has no reason to me. I had all the opportunity any man could desire. I think I could analyze the individual case of those complaining we would find pretty much the same situation. It is not the government that should be condemned. It is the people themselves." —St. Paul Daily News.

SLOW-COMING SATISFACTION

After many years, the Red Man has turned the tables. The day was when a white man felt entitled not only to drive away any aborigines who came into his region and offended his sight, but also to drive the Indians off their own reservations if the land was attractive.

Both practices were carried on for a matter of centuries. They involved a lot of powder burning. They are responsible for a number of monuments now showing the effect of weathering.

A few days ago automobile travelers, held up at the Arizona border by a quarantine against the foot and mouth disease, camped down on an Indian reservation. The natives ordered the motorists to move on. And they moved. It is belated revenge, and not very significant. But we suppose the Indian, opening his newspaper and reading about the incident, get some satisfaction out of it. —Toledo Blade.

FLOWER BEDS
ARE PLANTED
AT CAPITOL

Effort Being Made to Increase
Attractiveness of the
Capitol Grounds

An effort is being made to increase the attractiveness of the state capitol grounds this summer by the planting of flowers.

Five beds of flowers have been planted at the northeast corner of the capitol. Protected by the capital itself from the wind, it is expected the cannas, pansies and asters will make beautiful flower beds. On the southwest corner, where the wind must be reckoned with, a large bed of California and oriental peonies was planted. Immediately in front of the entrance to the capitol is a heart-shaped bed of flowers of all descriptions.

The plantings are being done by the board of administration. Next week workmen will begin sodding the slopes of the new Memorial Building grounds, preparatory to making a lawn around the building. Grading will be completed and all grounds put in shape.

The board of administration has requested the legislature for $5,000 a year to put the capitol grounds in shape, but the appropriation was cut to $1,000 a year.

Girls! Whiten Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug-gist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 20.—The foundation and first floor of the North Dakota Odd Fellows home for the aged and her dependent children have now been completed, and it is thought that the building will be ready for occupancy in the autumn. The state building committee contemplates making a park of the grounds surrounding the home, and to eventually make it the mecca for North Dakota Odd Fellows. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and it is being erected as to permit of additions to meet future demands.

The Grand Lodge has purchased 80 acres of land for the building and grounds, which are located at the east end of the city, on the Roosevelt Highway.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON, CONTINUED

I confess, Syd, I was a little afraid that Sally Atherton would shock mother with some of her unconventional speeches, but much to my surprise she immediately made herself very interesting. She asked mother all sorts of things about the family tree, which, of course, was the most flattering thing she could have done. Also she waxed eloquent over all that old furniture that Leslie has put into the house, particularly that old desk that mother gave to Leslie as a wedding present.

Mother told her that she was satisfied that desk contained a secret drawer, but that she never had been able to find it, and that Leslie had not seemed to, either.

"It wouldn't be secret very long if Leslie found it," I interrupted. "She never keeps anything from me, you know."

"Oh, I wouldn't be too sure of that," remarked Mrs. Atherton. "There isn't a person in the world that hasn't a secret drawer somewhere—some place where he or she hides away things that they would tell to no one, no matter how much that one was loved. It may only be a secret place in her heart."

"I am glad to find you acknowledge such a thing as a heart," I could not resist remarking for her ear alone.

To my surprise mother nodded her head in confirmation of Mrs. Atherton's surprising assertion and said: "I know this is true, for as long as I loved your father, John, as much and as intimate as was our married life, there were some thoughts in my brain, some desires in my heart, that I could never tell him."

I know, Syd, that my face expressed my surprise—to think that my mother conventional and puritanical as she is, should still find that there are things that she must not tell her husband. It set me to wondering. I've always been so sure that Leslie keeps nothing from me, I've always been so certain that keeping one's secrets was purely a masculine prerogative, that the idea was disturbing. I must have shown this in my face, for Mrs. Atherton spoke in answer to my expression for I had said nothing.

"One of the most interesting phases of life to me is the fact of masculine egotism. Every man thinks that he is not only the real custodian of his wife's soul, but the repository of her innermost thoughts. There's one part of the marriage service that he takes seriously, and that is that marriage has made him and his wife one. He emphatically, however, believes he is the one. If he gets the slightest suspicion that his wife has a different opinion, marriage then and there is not a success in his estimation."

Lord, Syd, that woman is a constant fillip to my intelligence. She invariably piques my imagination. No wonder a man of Sam Atherton's caliber soon discovered that he was not the "one". I don't know a man that could tame her. Come up soon and see if you think it would be worth your while.

RICH WHO DODGE THE LAWS
BY ALBERT APPLE

In China they still have an ancient law by which when a bank fails, the banker is beheaded. This may seem barbarous to some Americans. But only one bank has failed in China in over 400 years.

Strict enforcement of the law, regardless of the wealth and influence of the lawbreaker, always has a tendency to prevent crime. And it makes the government more substantial and enduring, for a government is built upon quicksands when the people do not have confidence in the integrity and impartial justice of courts.

We have in mind, in particular, the excellent public service performed by Judge Jesse D. Wall of Kansas in sentencing the convicted president of a defunct bank to 45 years in prison and $45,000 fine. This was the absolute limit possible under the law.

A few more judges like Wall would do more to strengthen our democracy and nip Bolshevism in the bud than a million years of flag waving, pious oratory and two-faced platitudes.

There can be no firm public confidence in the courts when the rich, by reason of being able to hire crafty lawyers who find loopholes in the law and methods of delay, have the advantage over defendants whose purse cannot afford such costly but effective dodging.

The courts themselves usually are theoretically impartial as to the wealth or poverty of defendants.

So are the laws. The trouble is, the laws are made by politicians recruited mainly among lawyers. And most of these incline to frame a law so there will be loopholes. Thus assuring plenty of business for the legal profession.

These loopholes frequently are in the nature of intended safeguards for people accused of crimes. But, given a rich client, a shrewd lawyer can find enough of these loopholes to delay a case almost interminably. The poor man cannot afford such lawyers.

One great weakness of our laws—and a weakness that is employed to keep rich offenders out of jail—is our foolish procedure of abiding by technicalities of the law rather than the plain meaning and intent of the law.

By citing precedents and starting arguments, the rich man's lawyer battles over the interpretation and technicalities of the law itself, even more than the question of guilt or innocence.

We need simpler laws, quicker justice—and more judges like Wall, inexorably going hammer and tongs after offenders regardless of wealth and standing. The courts are fast enough, all right, when the defendant can't hire an army of skilled "mouthpieces."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE GOSSIPS AND THE CRACKER BARREL

Mister Bags' store in the woods was a great place for all the neighborhood folk to meet and gossip.

One day Old Daddy Cracknuts came in and asked the price of a new kind of smoking tobacco, and Mister Bunn came in to use the telephone, and old Ringtail Coon was passing and looked in to wish Mister Bags the time of day.

And so it went until there was quite a party.

"It looks like rain," said Mister Bunn wisely, when he had finished talking on the telephone and said, "Much obliged," to Mister Bags, the fairman storekeeper.

Everybody considered this a moment.

"What do you think, Mister Groundhog?" asked Ringtail Coon. "You're our oldest inhabitant." And of course, being the oldest inhabitant, he was expected to know everything. It was suspected that Mosey Mud Turtle senior, was the very oldest inhabitant, but as Mosey wasn't sure and no one else could remember, it couldn't be proved on him.

Besides Ringtail rather liked the honor.

Ringtail absent mindedly took a cracker out of the cracker barrel before he answered. "Well," said he, "I don't know. It might be going to rain, and then again it might not. But I would say that if it hadn't started by midnight, it won't rain today."

And having delivered himself of this speech, he took another cracker out of the cracker barrel and started to munch at it reflectively.

"Did I tell you what happened to me in the last storm?" asked Daddy Cracknuts, who had already told the story at least two dozen times.

"What was that?" asked Mister Bunn taking a cracker out of the cracker barrel.

"Well," began Daddy, "by the way, Ben, you might pass me part of your cracker, I had an early lunch and—"

Mister Bunn took a whole new cracker out of the cracker barrel and passed it over.

"Well, as I was saying," said Daddy. "I bought a brand new bumperstool from Mister Bags here, and also a pair of go-shoes, and started for Stony Creek where I had to do an errand for Ma when an awful wind came up and—"

"Is that the day Reddy Fox got after you?" spoke up Mister Groundhog. He'd heard the story so many times, his ears were almost worn out, as he told his wife afterwards.

Whether it was that or not, I don't know, but his ears didn't affect his appetite any, and he reached for a cracker out of the cracker barrel.

"Yes!" said Daddy in an offhand voice. He didn't say another word, though, about his adventures. He crunched sulkily at another cracker.

When they had all gone, Nancy exclaimed, "Why, Mister Bags, the cracker barrel is empty! There isn't a single one left."

"I know," said the storekeeper. "It's often that way! But I can't help it."

"I have a plan," said Nick. So they all got their heads together.

One May Morning
Now the bright morning star, day's harbinger,
Comes dancing from the east, and leads with her
The flowery May, who from her green lap throws
The yellow cowslip and the pale primrose.
Hail, bounteous May, that doth inspire
Mirth, and youth, and warm desire!
Woods and groves are of thy dressing,
Hill and dale doth boast thy blessing.
Thus we salute thee with our early song,
And welcome thee, and wish thee long.

BETTER RESULTS

Ability to make money does not necessarily imply ability to conserve it. Some men of high earning power find themselves unable to make financial progress.

This is not necessarily because their funds are dissipated through extravagant habits. Too frequently, it is the result of losses sustained through investment in dubious enterprises whose only merit lies in a long shot chance for big returns. In a great majority of cases, a man's earning power shows better results when he is guided by conservative standards in the investment of his funds.

A savings account in this bank assures safety of principal which every three months draws interest at a rate which is fixed in accordance with sound banking principles.

A CITY'S TRIBUTE!

The schools all closed for the day and New Orleans turned out en masse to greet Mrs. Faith McDonough Leister of Tiffin, O., when she arrived. It was an amazing tribute to the great-granddaughter of John McDonough, founder of New Orleans' public school system. Years before, McDonough had come down from the north, made his fortune in the southland, and on his death left his millions for the erection of 31 schools. Here are school children, wearing costumes of McDonough's day, greeting Mrs. Leister.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

THE SITUATION CHANGED

Hopes of people of the nation who believed that a straightforward policy of curtailment of the public expense with a consequent lifting of fetters on business and a beneficial effect to every person in the country through assurance of continued industrial activity, a quickened readjustment to the phantom objective "normalcy" and perhaps a reduction in the cost of living, would be the great accomplishment of the present session of the national Congress are doomed to disappointment.

A scientific plan of tax reduction was presented, the object of which was to lift the weight on business, expand investments in productive concerns rather than in tax-free securities and make necessary a more level-headed plane of public expenditures. That plan has been ruthlessly shattered through partisan prejudice, narrow vision and utter selfishness in Congress. Instead there is now presented a hodge-podge tax revision measure which fails to provide revenue equal to the anticipated expenditures.

The passage of the soldier bonus bill makes necessary the raising of a huge sum of money annually. It is a reward to those who served in the World War which may prove relatively as costly as the peace of Versailles. For every big contributing factor to the restriction of business activity means lessened prosperity and postponed readjustment of after-the-war conditions.

The Bursum pension bill which President Coolidge vetoed was a measure which was put through by a narrow-visioned Congress, entirely unnecessary and saddling a huge burden on the public treasury.

The President's adamant attitude for the kind of legislation the people desired when the present session of Congress opened has thrown him into open conflict with Congress. The effect on the country at large is problematical. What his action may mean to his political future is uncertain as well. There is a considerable feeling among the people that Presidents have come to represent the people at large, while Congress with its myriads of local pork-barrel schemes fight for sectional or class gains has failed to think in terms of the entire nation. It is to be hoped that the President will not forget that President Coolidge is taking the more difficult course, that he is deliberately willing to place himself in opposition to local prejudice and vote-getting measures, and to rest his case with the country at large.

DODGING AGAIN

The Mandan Pioneer, taking up the defense of the "hide and seek" road policy designed to bring people into "Mandan's back door" and prevent them from enjoying equal advantages in the Mandan and Bismarck markets, continues to resort to ridicule and to represent falsely that the protests arising here are those of one citizen and a newspaper.

The Mandan Pioneer does not forget but it refuses to state that the Association of Commerce of Bismarck is back of the protests, that the most prominent business men and citizens of Bismarck declare our protest is just, and that a considerable number of Morton county people as well as Sioux county citizens, including the superintendent of the government Indian agency, all declare the so-called Mandan policy is one of utter selfishness and short-sightedness.

The kind of cooperation offered to Bismarck and to a considerable portion of residents of southern Morton and Sioux counties is a stab in the back. That is not the kind of cooperation they want from Mandan citizens or from any other source.

EXECUTIONER

Another public executioner commits suicide in Germany—his name Schweiss, age 74, retired on a small pension.

In his career he chopped off the heads of 123 criminals. Not an enviable record to carry into the Hereafter. He is on the other side now and knows how many (if any) of his victims were innocent, also whether capital punishment is classed as murder on the other side. The original version was "Thou shalt not kill"—without qualifications. Man has amended it for warfare and revenue against criminals.

HIGH

In France an aviator named Coupet breaks the world's record by flying to a height of over three and a half miles above the ground with 2200 pounds of cargo aboard.

This is a lot more important than smashing speed records. Fliers in general are obsessed with a craze for speed. What is needed most, to popularize flying, is SAFETY and CARRYING CAPACITY. Enormous express and passenger traffic will be handled by planes of the future. Flying still is more of a sport than a serious business.

LIQUOR

England and Scotland report that exports of liquor to islands near our Atlantic coast are only a third as much as a year ago. But this doesn't mean the rum-runners are less active. What is does mean, is a flood of counterfeit liquor, made from alcohol exported from this desert country of ours. The stuff is shipped out, doctored, colored, bottled and labeled, then brought back as the real thing.

ACTUALLY

Nothing is impossible in our day and age. The former crown prince of Germany has actually gone to work, unless the report from Prussia is a hoax. The ex-prince, according to the story, is selling agricultural machinery and working up a good business among the Germans.

Talk about beating swords into ploughshares!

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of the Bismarck Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of the question and be able to judge for themselves.

WHEELER CLEARED

The exoneration of Senator Wheeler by a special senatorial committee will be accepted by the country as an act of justice. Under the chairmanship of Senator Borah, the committee has acted fairly, hearing every witness whose testimony was relevant to the question of Senator Wheeler's guilt of innocence of the charge of having represented a client before a governmental department.

Other evidence, adverse to Senator Wheeler, may come to light if he should be tried on the indictment brought against him by a federal grand jury in Montana; but on the face of the evidence so far revealed, the indictment seems to have been the result of spitework by some old-guard members of the Republican National Committee, in return for Senator Wheeler's vigorous attacks on Attorney General Daugherty.

Lovers of fair play will rejoice that the malicious efforts of the Daugherty element have been frustrated by a prompt and impartial investigation by the Borah committee; and at the same time it may be pointed out that the Daugherty investigation, largely conducted by Senator Wheeler, has not been prompt, but has been drawn-out; has not been impartial, but has been glaringly partisan and vindictive; has not excluded extraneous matters, as did Chairman Borah, but has encouraged irresponsible witnesses to spread slanders against personal enemies.

When Senator Wheeler was indicted, he received a dose of his own medicine—slander. Therefore the sympathy which he has received has sometimes contained a snicker. But the injustices which Senator Wheeler has committed in the Daugherty hearings are no justification for an unfounded indictment. —Chicago Journal of Commerce.

GOVERNMENT AND INDIVIDUALS

There is a note of sound philosophy and truth in what Thomas H. Marshall, former vice president, said, while visiting St. Paul yesterday, in analyzing causes of discontent and unrest.

"Marshall's opinion, the trouble is more with the government and its laws. 'I am a labor man today,' said Mr. Marshall, 'for the simple reason that I squandered my money and lacked thrift when a young man. If I had saved my money and invested it then, as I should have done, I would be on an easy street today. I could spend my old age in any way I chose. But I haven't enough money to buy a home. I have to live in a rented house, and I haven't enough to live on without working.'

"Still I can't blame my government for the folly of my youth. Nor would it be right for me to ask that any special legislation be enacted to help me out. I can take care of myself. The government has been good to me. I had all the opportunity any man could desire. I could have made a fortune if I had wanted to. It is not the government that should be condemned. It is the people themselves." —St. Paul Daily News.

SLOW-COMING SATISFACTION

After many years, the Red Man has turned the tables. The day was when a white man felt entitled not only to drive away any aborigines who came into his region and offended his sight, but also to drive the Indians off their own reservations if the land was attractive.

Both practices were carried on for a matter of centuries. They involved a lot of powder burning. They are responsible for a number of monuments now showing the effect of weathering.

A few days ago automobile travelers held up at the Arizona border by a quarantine against the foot and mouth disease, camped down on an Indian reservation.

The natives ordered the motorcars to move on. And they moved. It is belated revenge, and not very significant. But we suppose the Indian, opening his perspective and seeing about the incident, got some satisfaction out of it. —Tulsa Blade.

FLOWER BEDS
ARE PLANTED
AT CAPITOLEffort Being Made to Increase
Attractiveness of the
Capitol Grounds

An effort is being made to increase the attractiveness of the state capitol grounds this summer by the planting of flowers.

Five beds of flowers have been planted at the northeast corner of the capitol. Protected by the capitol itself from the wind, it is expected the carnations, pansies and others will make beautiful flower beds. On the southwest corner, where the wind must be reckoned with, a large bed of California and oriental peonies was planted. Immediately in front of the entrance to the capitol is a heart-shaped bed of flowers of all descriptions.

The plantings are being done by the board of administration. Next week workmen will begin sodding the slopes of the new Memorial Building grounds, preparatory to making a lawn around the building. Grading will be completed and all grounds put in shape.

The board of administration has requested the legislature for $5,000 a year to put the capitol grounds in shape, but the appropriation was cut to $1,000 a year.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 20.—The foundation and first floor of the North Dakota Odd Fellows home for the aged and her dependent children have now been completed, and it is thought that the building will be ready for occupancy in the autumn.

The state building committee contemplates making a park of the grounds surrounding the home, and to eventually make it the mecca for North Dakota Odd Fellows. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 and it is being erected as a permit of additions to meet future demands.

The Grand Lodge has purchased 80 acres of land for the building and grounds, which are located at the east end of the city, on the Roosevelt Highway.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN

PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CAR-

TON, CONTINUED

I confess, Syd, I was a little afraid that Sally Atherton would shock mother with some of her unconventional speech, but much to my surprise she immediately made herself very interesting. She asked mother all sorts of things about the family tree, which, of course, was the most flattering thing she could have done. Also she waxed eloquent over all that old furniture that Leslie has put into the house, particularly that old desk that mother gave to Leslie as a wedding present.

Mother told me that she was satisfied that desk contained a secret drawer, but that she never had been able to find it, and that Leslie had not seemed to, either.

"It wouldn't be secret very long if Leslie found it," I interrupted. "She never keeps anything from me, you know."

"Oh, I wouldn't be too sure of that," remarked Mrs. Atherton. "There isn't a person in the world that hasn't a secret drawer somewhere—some place where he or she hides away things that they would tell to no one, no matter how much that one was loved. It may only be a secret place in her heart."

"I am glad to find you acknowledge such a thing as a heart," I could not resist remarking for her ear alone.

To my surprise mother nodded her head in confirmation of Mrs. Atherton's surprising assertion and said: "I know this is true, for as much as I loved your father, John, as long and as intimate as was our married life, there were some thoughts in my brain, some desires in my heart, that I could never tell him."

I know, Syd, that my face expressed my surprise—to think that my mother, conventional and puritanical as she is, should still find that there are things that she must not tell her husband. It set me to wondering. I've always been so sure that Leslie keeps nothing from me, I've always been so certain that keeping one's secrets was purely a masculine prerogative, that the idea was disturbing. I must have shown this in my face, for Mrs. Atherton spoke in answer to my expression for I had said nothing:

"One of the most interesting phases of life to me is the fact of masculine egotism. Every man thinks that he is not only the real custodian of his wife's soul, but the repository of her innermost thoughts. There's one part of the marriage service that he takes seriously, and that is that marriage has made him and his wife one. He emphatically, however, believes he is the one. If he gets the slightest suspicion that his wife has a different opinion, marriage then and there is not a success in his estimation."

Lord, Syd, that woman is a constant fillop to my intelligence. She invariably piques my imagination. No wonder a man of Sam Atherton's caliber soon discovered that he was not the "one." I don't know a man that could tame her. Come up soon and see if you think it would be worth your while.

TIGERS LOSE TO BOSTON

Ehmke Pitches Fine Ball For The Winners

Chicago, May 20.—Wildness by Holloway, Pillette and Clarke and hits by Wagoners, Veach and Harris in the second inning gave Boston six runs yesterday, and the Tigers lost to the Red Sox, 6 to 1. Howard Ehmke pitched well for Boston.

The Athletics left their slump, winning from Chicago, 4 to 3. Eddie Kummel, Philadelphia's pitcher, returned to the mound after an absence of several days due to a strained side and pitched fine ball. It was announced that Eddie Collins had been appointed temporary manager of the Chicago White Sox, during the illness of Johnny Evers, who has appendicitis.

Hitting Watson timely in the sixth inning, Pittsburgh defeated New York, 6 to 3, yesterday. Rain fell almost continuously during the game. Muesel hit a homer in the ninth.

College "Boy" Ohio State's Greatest Star

Columbus, May 20.—Larry Snyder, Ohio State University boasts one of the best all-around athletes in the history of the institution. And that's saying something, considering that Chic Harley, Pete Stenhouse, Hoge Workman and others have worn the Buckeye colors at some time or other.

Snyder is captain of this season's track team. He is a junior, being the only third-year man to get lead in Ohio State track squad. Snyder starts in several events, namely: high and low hurdles, high and broad jumps and the pole vault. He's above the average in each of them.

In the recent Ohio relays, Snyder won the pentathlon event. He beat a classy field to turn the trick, too. He was also entered in the 100-meter dash and the 200-meter dash, carrying off the 120-yard hurdle event.

Snyder is also a star football player. He won his letter as a halfback last fall. Along with Hoge Workman, he was one of the bright lights of an otherwise mediocre aggregation. He looms as one of the most promising candidates for next fall's eleven.

Snyder is 26 years of age. He is a veteran of the World War, having been active service overseas. He is married, and his little daughter is one of his staunchest admirers. At every opportunity the wee Miss Snyder is on hand to cheer, her illustrious daddy along.

HAWAII TO SEND SWIMMERS TO OLYMPIC MEET

Honolulu, May 20.—The name Kahanamoku, of potent magic in the swimming world since 1912 when Duke Kahanamoku went from Hawaii to Stockholm Olympic and carried the colors of the United States to victory in the 100-meter freestyle swim, may shine with renewed luster this year, according to swimming authorities here.

Sam, younger brother of the Duke, is counted upon to revive the fame of the Kahanamoku family. He has been chosen as one of the members of the squad to be sent by the Hawaiian A. A. U. to the sectional try-outs on the mainland.

Sam is a freestyle sprinter and also has several fast breaststroke performances to his credit. He is 19 years old. His best freestyle performance was 100 meters open water in 1:00 3-5, a Hawaiian record and only one-fifth of a second over Duke's Olympic record.

The other members of the swim-

ing squad are:

Marichon Wehlan, holder of the world's women's freestyle tank record of 1:03 for 100 meters.

Henry Luning, with a 100-meter backstroke record of 1:13 4-5, one-fifth of a second slower than the world's record.

William Kirschbaum, breaststroke swimmer with a performance of 3:02 1-5 for 200 meters.

Warren Kealeha, holder of the world's 100-meter backstroke record of 1:12 2-5.

Charles Pung, son of En Sae Pung, Chinese who has played basketball in the senior league here for the past 25 years.

Pua Kealeha, member of the 1920 American freestyle Olympic relay team, and second to Duke Kahanamoku in the 100-meter race at Stockholm.

Members of the track and field squad include: Milton Carter, of Hilo, holder of the island high jump record of 5 feet 11 1-4 inches, established this year; Richard Cartley, former of Yale, holder of the island pole-vault record at 12 feet 7-8 inches, established this year; and John Watt, formerly of Cornell University, holder of the island 120-yard high hurdle record of 15 3-8 seconds.

SEE WEAK SPOTS IN GOLF LIST

Professionals' Plan of Sectional Qualifying Rounds Is Fairer Than Arbitrarily Named Fields

By Joe Williams

Bulky golf fields are drawing the drudgery of executives who control the conduct of national tournaments. First the professionals acted to weed out the impossibles, deciding on sectional qualifying rounds in the east and west. Each section will qualify 50 players. The 160 thus to qualify will move to Oakland Hills, Detroit, and fight it out for the championship proper.

The amateurs followed suit with the promulgation of a selected list of eligibles, some 180 in number, and these players are to compete at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia. The amateur list was arbitrarily chosen from low handicap players in various parts of the country and is probably as fair and representative as is possible under the circumstances.

Logically, it is hardly as practical or logical as the system of selection used by professionals. For one thing, it makes no provision for players who may have developed top-notch ability since the last tournament, and it throws a restraining barrier in front of youngsters with limited fame but potential skill.

Nothing brings real golf genius to the surface as sure and speedily as competition in a major championship where the hitherto unknown rubs shoulders with the greats and confidence. An arbitrarily selected list must reduce this type of entry to a minimum. It would seem a far better idea if the amateurs were to hold sectional qualifying rounds, open to all, as the pros do.

Mack Ready to Part With Catcher Perkins, Is Report

New York, May 20.—Dame! rumor has it that Connie Mack is not at all satisfied with his catching, despite the fact that in Cy Perkins he has a receiver reputed to be one of the best in the business.

Perkins no longer catches Rommel, the pitching ace of Mack's staff. Aside from Rommel none of Mack's pitchers coupled with Perkins has shown anything.

Two years ago Perkins was the most talked about backstop in the country. During the past two years his work has not measured up to the standard he established to win rank as a star.

Several American League clubs could use a catcher Perkins' type, and if they have enough to offer in return, might be able to do business with Mack.

FUNERAL HELD

Funeral services for the late Jos. F. Williams, who for forty years had made his residence in this city, were held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home, 405 First Ave. N. W., with a large concourse of friends and relatives in attendance. Rev. H. H. Owen of the Presbyterian church, preached the funeral sermon, taking for his subject the "Friendship of Christ" and appropriate hymns were sung by a quartette composed of Mrs. Morgan Morris, Dr. and Mrs. A. O. Henderson and Walter C. Testevin.

M. Connelly, H. L. Dahners, A. J. Sylvester, George Davies, F. S. Hudson and John Foran were the active pallbearers, while honorary pallbearers included eight close friends of the deceased and a large delegation of members of the A. O. U. W., who attended in a body. Interment took place in the Union cemetery.

START PAVING

Actual paving work was started yesterday with the concrete mixer at the corner of Main street and Second Ave. N. E. by the Woodrich company. It is hoped to pave a block a day.

The concrete will require about three weeks to set before traffic upon it will be permitted.

The grading outfit has finished the heavy cutting through the hill on Fourth street N. W. between Fourth and Sixth Avenues and as soon as that stretch is finished it will move to West Main street.

OLYMPIC GAMES OWE ORIGIN TO FRENCHMAN

New York, May 20.—Contrary to the generally accepted opinion, it was France and a Frenchman and not Greece and a Greek who primarily advocated the re-establishment of the Olympic games. The modern Olympic, fashioned after the ancient classics of Greece, was first suggested to the modern world by Baron Pierre de Coubertin a young Parisian who, in the spring of 1893, took steps to bring back the games which predominated when Sparta and Athens were centers of the ancient world.

On Baron de Coubertin's initiative, representatives of the athletic organizations of various nations assembled in Paris on July 16, 1894 and drafted the original constitution of the international Olympic committee and subsequently formed the international body. This committee was entrusted with the task of arranging Olympic games at regular intervals and at various places in the civilized world. Baron de Coubertin is the present head of the International Olympic Game Committee.

Classic soil was chosen as the scene of the first modern Olympics, an honor legitimately demanded by the home of the classic games. Athens, Greece, in 1896, saw the first Olympic meeting of the athletes of the modern world. Four years later the scene shifted to Paris. In 1904 St. Louis entertained the athletes of the world in the third meet. In 1908 London played host and in 1912 Stockholm staged the international classic. The 1916 meet was postponed when the modern world was engaged in the most bitter war of its existence, but the games were continued in 1920 when the war clouds had cleared and Antwerp staged the most representative meet of the series.

In 1906 there arose in Greece a wish to have a permanent home for the games in the country of their origin. As a result a meet was held in Athens two years after the St. Louis games. This was to be continued every four years between the official international games, but the International Committee ruled that the games should be held only every four years at different places in the civilized world, and the Athenians abandoned their plans after the 1906 meet.

Up until the Stockholm meet in 1912 the games had been predominated by American athletes, the color bearers of Uncle Sam taking a far more prominent part than athletes from any other nation. In 1912 the games assumed their first real international aspect when virtually every civilized nation in the world was represented and the competition was correspondingly keener.

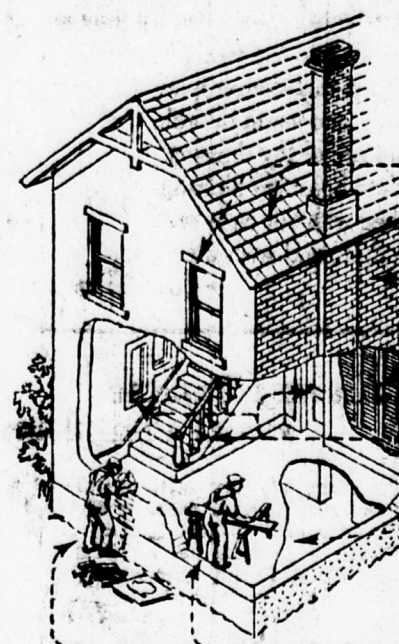

In 1920 at Antwerp this international aspect was even more marked, and at Paris this year the number of nations and athletes competing is gulf of Paria, report having seen the surface of the water illuminated for a great distance by a blazing column of gas and oil. It is explained by scientists that the Orinoco river carries in to the gulf enormous quantities of silt and that this part of the coast is subject to earthquake shocks and also underlain with oil. A fissure developed in bedrock on the floor of the gulf will extend to an oil reservoir. The pressure is so great that the oil and gas, forcing their way upward and pushing along everything in the way, cause an island of silt to suddenly appear on the surface. Continued pressure beneath the island eventually causes it to burst like a bubble and free the accumulated oil and gas beneath, which immediately ignites and burns until the supply is exhausted, usually in from four days to a week. The gas has a rather low ignition temperature and heat developed by friction between it and the salt water is sufficient to ignite it.

"Roller Skates" Fit on Sled for All-Year Coaster

Detachable rubber-tired wheels, like those on the latest type of roller skates, that can be fitted in a few moments into the runners of a "coaster," convert the sled into a smooth and silent running wagon for seasons when there is no snow. Steering is done by a convenient front rod which simultaneously turns the forward and rear runners. Sharp corners can be managed in this way, the danger of "skidding" on steep hills is lessened and the sled is more easily controlled at high speeds. Springs and strong strips of steel are used in the gear and it is adjusted so that it cannot get "stuck." The sled weighs only fourteen pounds and is strongly built.

Know Every Ball The Pitcher Throws and Study Every Batter. Collins' Tips To Second Basemen

BY EDDIE COLLINS
World's Greatest Second Baseman

Cover the bag—I offer that slogan for every second baseman. On every ball that is hit always have in mind the play that may arise at your bag and be ready for it.

Work with your shortstop—There should be a perfect understanding between the second baseman and shortstop. For smooth play it is necessary that the shortstop and second baseman know who is to cover the bag. This can be done by the use of a simple yet obvious sign. Get the catcher's signs—The second baseman should be familiar with the battery signs so that he knows just what style of ball is going to be pitched. This enables him to shift on his bat as to be in the best possible position at all times. On an attempted steal—When the understanding between shortstop and second baseman calls for a throw to cover the bag and the direction of first. On the dead left-field hitter play much closer to the bag in plenty of time. Leave your position as the runner starts his steal.

Speed Keynote of Double Plays

With a runner on first—I favor playing a step or two closer to second base with a runner on first than I ordinarily do. The reason of course is that the short distance so gained often makes possible the completion of a double play on a ball hit to the shortstop. Many a double play is lost by a matter of inches.

In making double plays—Speed is the key to the making of double plays. Get the ball away from you with something on it, shoot it rather than merely toss it. In order to handle a speedy throw it is necessary to be at the bag, ready to pivot and throw.

Shifting your position—The stationary second baseman is a serious handicap to a team's success. Sceldom do I make two plays from the same position. On the player known as a right-field hitter, shift over in the direction of first. On the dead left-field hitter play much closer to second than is customary. Study your batters, take into consideration the style ball that is to be pitched and shift accordingly.

Always Concentrate on Your Game

The part the pitcher plays—Very often an infielder is made to look foolish by having a batter hit through the spot that he has vacated. This slip can often be traced back to the failure of the pitcher to deliver the ball called for. Getting crossed in signals often makes the infielder look foolish.

Concentrate—Keep your mind on the ball game. Carry on no conversation with a fellow player other than is necessary to dope out your plan of defensive strategy. Don't play the machine as a mere machine. Try to figure out the possibilities of every situation and be prepared to meet them.

Don't worry—If you have a bad day try to forget it. Fretting over the tough breaks hurts one's game. Figure each game as a fractional part of the season. It doesn't always rain.

Ancestor worship

The Chinese pray to their ancestors. But they do more than that. They allow themselves to be guided by family tradition in their every thought and action. The principal difficulty facing the introduction of modern improvements into China is the universal objection: "This is not as our fathers did."

Imagine saying that we did not want electricity because our forefathers were satisfied with candles.

Though we never went as far as the Chinese, our conservatism in the past often went to considerable lengths. Think of the telephone, of the motor car. How much encouragement did they get at first?

Advertising more than anything else has made of us a nation willing to judge something new on its merits, rather than on narrow, ancient traditions.

Advertising today is as necessary as electricity, sanitation and rapid transit. It is more than the system by which we are kept informed of every new improvement that is to our advantage. It is the catalog wherein, every day, all manner of articles are listed for us with their individual advantages.

Read the advertisements. Be guided by them. They will help you in making your selections. They will save you money.

Descendant Of Cleopatra Finds Humanity Does Not Change

PRINCESS ATHENA
 The stars shine— a love you— Yet in—ger— a while—

Egyptian Princess Calls Music on Arabian Desert and Broadway Identical!

Athena, Egyptian Princess visiting New York and devotee of oriental music has her own ideas of where American jazz will go. They are different from those of some reformers who see only a downward route for the popular septant.

"This jazz which I hear everywhere," says Princess Athena, "a direct descendant of Cleopatra," happens to have reached America in its cycle. On the Arabian desert where civilization has not moved for several thousand years I have heard exactly the same sort of rhythm on Arabic drums and the strumming of the khamoon is just like the banjo.

"But for the oriental setting and repetition, one might think one was hearing a Broadway jazz band in the heart of the desert. Present day jazz is purely plaintive music set in beautiful orchestrations. Such songs as 'Linger Awhile' with its dolce for a while title and its plaintive melody is a perfect type of the primitive with color and finish added."

TIGERS LOSE TO BOSTON

Ehmke Pitches Fine Ball For The Winners

Chicago, May 20.—Wildness by Holloway, P. H. and Clarke and hits by Wagoner, A. and Harris in the second inning gave Boston six runs yesterday, and the Tigers lost to the Red Sox, 6 to 1. Howard Hunter pitched well for Boston.

The Sox left the top of the third inning with a 2-0 lead. Ed the Boston pitcher pitched well, retiring the second batter in each of the first four innings. In the sixth inning, Boston scored four runs, and the game was over. Ehmke pitched a fine ball for the winners.

College "Boy" Ohio State's Greatest Star

Columbus, May 20.—Lorry Snyder, Ohio State University, is one of the best all-around athletes in the history of the institution. And that is saying something, considering that Ohio State has produced some of the greatest athletes in the world. Snyder is a star in many sports, including football, basketball, and track.

Snyder is captain of this season's track team. He is a junior, being the only third-year man to get lead in Ohio State track squad. Snyder starts in several events, namely: high and low hurdles, high and broad jumps and the pole vault. He is above the average in each of them. In the recent Ohio relays, Snyder won the pentathlon event. He beat a classy field to turn the trick, too. He was also entered in the annual Penn games and sparked, carrying off the 120-yard hurdle victory.

Know Every Ball The Pitcher Throws and Study Every Batter, Collins' Tips To Second Basemen

BY EDDIE COLLINS
World's Greatest Second Basemen

Cover the bag—I offer that slogan for every second baseman. On every ball that is hit always have in mind the play that may arise at your bag and be ready for it.

Work with your shortstop—There should be a perfect understanding between the second baseman and shortstop. For smooth play it is necessary that the shortstop and second baseman know who is to cover the bag. This can be done by the use of a simple yet obvious sign.

Get the catcher's signs—The second baseman should be familiar with the catcher's signs so that he knows what style of ball is going to be pitched. This enables him to shift his position as to be in the best possible position at all times.

Don't attempt a steal—When the pitcher is in the windup, the second baseman should be ready to cover the bag. If the pitcher attempts a steal, the second baseman should be ready to cover the bag.

Don't throw on an attempted steal—If the pitcher attempts a steal, the second baseman should be ready to cover the bag. If the pitcher attempts a steal, the second baseman should be ready to cover the bag.

Professionals' Plan of Sectional Qualifying Rounds Is Fairer Than Arbitrarily Named Fields

By Joe Williams

Bulky golf fields are drawing the disfavor of executives who control the conduct of national tournaments. First the professionals acted to weed out the impossibilities, deciding on sectional qualifying rounds in the east and west. Each section will qualify 80 players. The 160 thus to qualify will move to Oakland Hills, Detroit, and fight it out for the championship proper.

The amateurs followed suit with the promulgation of a selected list of eligibles, some 150 in number, and those players are to compete at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia. The amateur list was arbitrarily chosen from low handicap players in various parts of the country and is probably as fair and representative as is possible under the circumstances.

However, it is hardly as practical or logical as the system of selection used by professionals. For one thing, it makes no provision for players who may have developed top-notch ability since the last tournament, and it throws a restraining barrier in front of youngsters with limited fame but potential skill. Nothing brings real golf genius to the surface as sure and speedily as competition in a major championship where the hitherto unknown rubs shoulders with the greats and thus develops poise and confidence. An arbitrarily selected list must needs reduce this type of entry to a minimum. It would seem a far better idea if the amateurs were to hold sectional qualifying rounds, open to all, as the pros do.

Mack Ready to Part With Catcher Perkins, Is Report

New York, May 20.—Dime rumor has it that Connie Mack is not at all satisfied with his catching, despite the fact that in Cy Perkins he has a receiver reputed to be one of the best in the business. Perkins no longer catches Hommer, the pitching ace of Mack's staff. Aside from Hommer, none of Mack's pitchers coupled with Perkins has shown anything.

OLYMPIC GAMES OWE ORIGIN TO FRENCHMAN

New York, May 20.—Contrary to the generally accepted opinion, it was France and a Frenchman and not Greece and a Greek who primarily advocated the re-establishment of the Olympic Games. The modern Olympiad, fashioned after the ancient classic of Greece, was first suggested to the modern world by Baron Pierre de Coubertin a young Parisian who, in the spring of 1893, took steps to bring back the games which predominated when Sparta and Athens were centers of the ancient world.

On Baron de Coubertin's initiative, representatives of the athletic organizations of various nations assembled in Paris on July 16, 1894 and drafted the original constitution of the international Olympic committee and subsequently formed the international body. This committee was entrusted with the task of arranging Olympic games at regular intervals and at various places in the civilized world. Baron de Coubertin is the present head of the International Olympic Game Committee.

Classic soil was chosen as the scene of the first modern Olympics, an honor legitimately demanded by the home of the classic games. Athens, Greece, in 1896, saw the first Olympic meeting of the athletes of the modern world. Four years later the scene shifted to Paris. In 1904 St. Louis entertained the athletes of the world in the third meet. In 1908 London played host and in 1912 Stockholm staged the international classic. The 1916 meet was postponed when the modern world was engaged in the most bitter war of its existence, but the games were continued in 1920 when the war clouds had cleared and Antwerp staged the most representative meet of the series.

In 1906 there arose in Greece a wish to have a permanent home for the games in the country of their origin. As a result a meet was held in Athens two years after the St. Louis games. This was to be continued every four years between the official international games, but the International Committee ruled that the games should be held only every four years at different places in the civilized world, and the Athenians abandoned their plans after the 1906 meet.

Up until the Stockholm meet in 1912 the games had been predominated by American athletes, the color bearers of Uncle Sam taking a far more prominent part than athletes from any other nation. In 1912 the games assumed their first real international aspect when virtually every civilized nation in the world was represented and the competition was correspondingly keener.

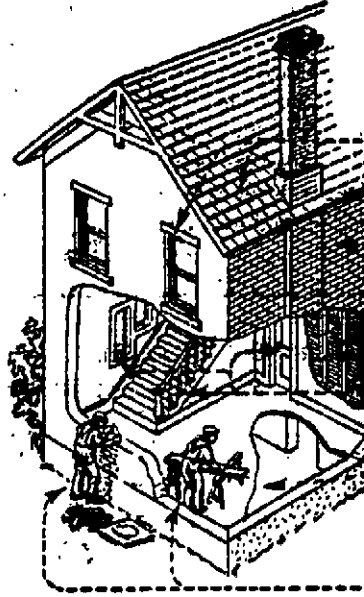

In 1920 at Antwerp this international aspect was even more marked, and at Paris this year the world's best of nations and athletes competing is

These percentages will vary in different localities but, according to a large appraisal company, they represent typical costs. Under modern conditions, the labor bill approximates 27.5 per cent of the total expense when work and materials only are figured, millwork 13.2 per cent, and lumber 20.5 per cent. When the value of the furniture or the stock is added to other costs, the expense of the brick in the "all brick" structure is negligible.

the result of such exposure is that the lines become weakened and cannot be relied upon when needed to pull in a heavy fish, as they usually break just at a critical moment. The lines should therefore be protected against effects of temperature and humidity. A good method of doing this is to wind each line on a spool and keep the spools in a tightly corked bottle. Lines have been kept in good condition in this way for 3 years. Straight olive bottles, or similar ones with the neck and body of the same diameter, are excellent to use for this purpose. The bottles are first corked and the tin cap then screwed on, with a piece of waxed paper under it.

"Roller Skates" Fit on Sled for All-Year Coaster

Detachable rubber-tired wheels, like those on the latest type of roller skates, that can be fitted in a few moments into the runners of a "coaster," convert the sled into a smooth and silent running wagon for seasons when there is no snow. Steering is done by a convenient front rod which simultaneously turns the forward and rear runners. Sharp corners can be managed in this way, the danger of "skidding" on steep hills is lessened and the sled is more easily controlled at high speeds. Springs and strong strips of steel are used in the gear and it is adjusted so that it cannot get "stuck." The sled weighs only fourteen pounds and is strongly built.

Ancestor worship

The Chinese pray to their ancestors. But they do more than that. They allow themselves to be guided by family tradition in their every thought and action. The principal difficulty facing the introduction of modern improvements into China is the universal objection: "This is not as our fathers did."

Imagine saying that we did not want electricity because our forefathers were satisfied with candles.

Though we never went as far as the Chinese, our conservatism in the past often went to considerable lengths. Think of the telephone, of the motor car. How much encouragement did they get at first?

Advertising more than anything else has made of us a nation willing to judge something new on its merits, rather than on narrow, ancient traditions.

Advertising today is as necessary as electricity, sanitation and rapid transit. It is more than the system by which we are kept informed of every new improvement that is to our advantage. It is the catalog wherein, every day, all manner of articles are listed for us with their individual advantages.

Read the advertisements. Be guided by them. They will help you in making your selections. They will save you money.

The bill also provides for payment to dependents of deceased veterans of the amount of adjusted service compensation to which they would be entitled.

Adjusted service compensation is figured on the basis of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service. The first 60 days cannot be counted. Also a maximum of 500 days would be allowed. All veterans up to and including the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenant in the navy are eligible for the bonus.

Average Policy $962
It is estimated that the average insurance policy would be valued at $962, while the maximum value of the policies would be about $1,900 for overseas service and $1,600 for home service.

The value of the policy would be the equivalent amount which the adjusted service credit plus 25 percent would purchase at regular insurance prices based on 4 percent interest compounded annually. To determine the latter computation a table of factors has been compiled by experts. Multiplication of the proper factor by the amount of adjusted service compensation due the veteran, plus 25 percent, would give the face value of the insurance certificate. Each certificate, of course, would vary according to the length of service of the veteran and his age at the date of issuance of the policy. The policies would be dated next January 1.

The Table of Factors
The table of factors follows, the first figure being the age and the second its factor:

20-25.45; 21-2.541; 22-2.542; 23-2.543; 24-2.549; 25-2.557; 26-2.565; 27-2.572; 28-2.580; 29-2.587; 30-2.594; 31-2.601; 32-2.607; 33-2.613; 34-2.619; 35-2.624; 36-2.629; 37-2.634; 38-2.638; 39-2.642; 40-2.646; 41-2.650; 42-2.654; 43-2.658; 44-2.662; 45-2.666; 46-2.669; 47-2.673; 48-2.676; 49-2.679; 50-2.682; 51-2.685; 52-2.688; 53-2.691; 54-2.694; 55-2.696; 56-2.699; 57-2.701; 58-2.704; 59-2.706; 60-2.708; 61-2.710; 62-2.712; 63-2.714; 64-2.716; 65-2.718.

Application for the bonus may be made at any time before January 1, 1925, but the cash payments will not be distributed until after next March 1.

Loans may be made on the policies up to 90 percent of their current face value any time after two years from the date of issuance. Thus, on a $1,000 policy at the end of two years a loan of $87.93 could be made. On this same policy at the end of 10 years a loan of $831.25 would be possible. The loans may be made at any national or state bank.

Service between April 5, 1917 and July 1, 1919, may be counted in computing the adjusted service credit, although enlistment must have been made before November 11, 1918.

Applications Blanks Ready Soon

Application blanks soon will be distributed throughout the country through service organizations and the post offices. Although administration of the bill will center in the Veterans Bureau, the veteran will have to send his application to the war department, if his service was with the army and to the navy department if service was with the navy or marine corps. If the veteran served in both the army and navy the application should be sent to the department under which he last served.

Women who served as yeomen in the navy and marine corps also were included in the bill as eligible to receive its benefits.

This stipulates that no one shall be entitled to its benefits for service as a civilian officer or for membership in the reserve officers training corps or the students army training corps.

Crystal Sets May Hear London Stations

It certainly would be a great surprise to many radio listeners to receive London broadcasting stations on their crystal sets. However, this and other dreams of imaginative radio fans may soon be realized when the new transmitting apparatus invented by Guglielmo Marconi, the radio wizard whose inventions made radio communication practicable, is perfected. This signal piece of construction work in the radio field, which is based on extensive experiments conducted by the inventor and his colleague, Mr. C. S. Franklin, promises to revolutionize completely the present methods of long-distance transmission. The gist of the new invention, according to Mr. Marconi's announcement at a recent meeting in London, over which he presided, is that the radio waves are concentrated in the form of beams that can be projected in any desired direction. In this way all the power can be sent in one direction, thus intensifying the strength of the signals considerably over unheard-of distances, and the electrical energy required for such directional transmission is much less than the amount otherwise used. Marconi also stated that in his recent experiments with the new method he communicated with St. Vincent, on one of the Cape Verde islands, located approximately 2,400 miles from England, with much less power than otherwise used to span the distance, and receiving the signals much more clearly, and that he was led to believe that owners of crystal sets in America would soon be able to receive London broadcasting stations. The new method may also be used to guide ships through fog.

He said that these songs or one-syllabled calls, have inflections of pitch and emphasis closely resembling the same phenomena in the speaking voice and that at times the whistles, chirps or twitters, resemble human words. The building up of a dictionary of bird sounds with reference to their pitch, intensity, speed, form, expression and timbre was urged.

A New Hampshire farmer who used this method instructed his children and the hired help to give the sacks a swing every time they passed under the line to make it still more uncomfortable for the hens.
